AFRL awards three-year contract to Rome firm

by Fran Crumb, Information Directorate

ROME, N.Y. — The Air Force Research Laboratory's Information Directorate has awarded an indefinite quantity contract with a potential value of $4,749,854 to Ocuto Blacktop and Paving Co., Inc., of Rome.

The three-year contract will allow the directorate to obtain services for pavement and earthwork, maintenance, repair and construction up to the maximum level of the agreement.

"We can utilize Ocuto services for construction and repair of parking facilities, curbing, roadways and a variety of force-protection tasks, such as installation of security barriers and removal of unused roadways and parking lots," said Alan C. Jones of the directorate's Operational Contracting Branch."

"The contract can also be used for work on fire hydrants and underground piping, as well as sewers and storm drains," said Jones. "The agreement also covers work at the directorate's remote research facilities in Newport and Stockbridge." @
